

To whom this may concern:

First of all, I'd just like to remind you of why this country is great. "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press, or the right of the people to peaceably assemble and to petition the government for a redress of grievances."

Secondly, I wanted to voice my opinion concerning the recent events that seem to threaten the future of Howard Stern's nationally syndicated radio show. I must say, attaching fines to laws that are completely vague is genius! I have to postulate how unethical this is. Wait..what's wrong with me?! What else should I come to expect from the American government. I've become more certain of it's deviousness every day. The only thing I'm more certain of is forcing Howard Stern off of the air with your fines infringes the civil liberties of people who are not children, and promises to keep the courts busy for years dealing with the interpretational and enforcemental problems inherent in the proposal's design. In summation, continue your witch-hunt, just know that real Americans are not going to take this lying down.

Sincerely,
Ryan R. Leon
